

Gasoline Explosion Causes Fire and Threatens Block In the Heart of Clearfield

Dry Cleaning Works of Allen & Bartholomew Gutted, and Adjoining Buildings Damaged by Quick Blaze

QUICK WORK BY FIREMEN SAVES BLOCK

Two Burned, and Dwellings Over Store Badly Damaged by Fire and Water

An explosion of about four gallons of gasoline in the pressing and cleaning establishment of Allen and Bartholomew on Market street this morning at 10:30 blew out the whole glass front of the building and badly burned Mr. Bartholomew and his assistant Jack O'Brien and threatened in ten minutes to destroy half a block of old wooden buildings surrounding it.

Bartholomew who was working in the rear of the shop with Jack O'Brien, a boy of 12, was badly burned about the face and hands, and had large holes in his clothing. He was taken to the Clearfield hospital. O'Brien was also painfully burned about the hands and face, and was cared for at Dr. Waterworth's office.

Mrs. Bartholomew who was in the front part of the building ran out into the street immediately and called for help. She was followed shortly afterwards by her husband and the boy.

The flames quickly spread through the whole building and burst out all the windows creating a blaze which the large crowd of people which gathered expected would destroy the neighboring buildings as well as the cleaning establishment in a few minutes.

The first ward fire company had one stream of water on the fire in five minutes after the explosion occurred, and in ten minutes the four fire companies of the town had as many streams on the building in the front as rear. The flames which had in five minutes grown until they shot out of the window and up higher than the building were quickly subdued and in 20 minutes the fire was completely under control.

The building in which the explosion occurred was owned by the George Snyder estate and had no insurance. The loss to the building is estimated will reach $1000.

The second story of the building directly over the pressing shop was occupied by L. B. Antis and five children, three of whom were in the building at the time of the explosion, and J. H. Antis and wife, both of whom were at home. Both families got out of the building safely. The apartment next to the shop was occupied by Mrs. George Snyder about 65 years old who had to be assisted out of the building.

The furniture and household goods of these families had not been protected by insurance and the loss will be heavy from fire and water damage.

The building of L. Denning which stands right next to the cleaning shop was not damaged to any great extent. There was $1000 insurance on the Denning building.

The Republican printing office which adjoined the Snyder building was damaged slightly by water. This loss is fully covered by insurance. A flutter of excitement was caused immediately after the explosion by a young woman who rushed into the street frantically calling for some one to rescue her sister from the burning building. A thorough search of the premises failed to disclose cause for her alarm, and later the women thought to be missing turned up with an armful of household goods which she had rescued and was taking to a place of safety.

The firm of Allen and Bartholomew had $6000 insurance on their stock and equipment which will in a large part cover the loss which is estimated at a little over $600. Bartholomew had $500 insurance on his household goods which will cover the loss.

Firemen "On the Job"

A number of the Clearfield fire companies on duty were called into action to save about $10,000 worth of property in the center of town which was threatened by the explosion of gasoline at a Bartholomew's pressing and cleaning shop.

The buildings surrounding the cleaning shop are all wooden frame structures on a large blaze which was caused immediately by the gasoline and which swept through the entire shop and out into the street would have in the opinion of all who saw it become uncontrollable had not the 2nd ward fire company had one stream of water on it a few minutes afterwards.

The fire alarm which was heard in operation for the first time by everyone in town proved its advantages over the old one by guiding the other three fire companies from the third, an fourth ward and from Reedsville directly to the scene of conflagration by sounding the 12th district in one short blast followed immediately by two short blasts and repeating this signal about 15 times.

ATTORNEYS BEGIN ARGUMENT IN THE FAMOUS THAW CASE

Jury Expected to be Sent Out This Afternoon—Quick Verdict Possible

(BY UNITED PRESS)

New York, July 14.—Presentation of evidence in the sanity trial of Harry K. Thaw closed at 10:40 a. m. today and Deputy Attorney General Cook began summing up. Cook planned to consume about 45 minutes and Thaw's attorneys two or three hours. It appeared probable that the case would go to the jury early this afternoon. Thaw was very confident. A smile of cherty optimism wreathed his face as he bent forward listening closely to all that was said.

In the big crowd that sought admission to the court room were many flashily dressed women. They pressed in about the bailiffs and were very indignant at being denied entrance to the court room.

THE WAR ZONE, POSITION OF ARMIES AND THE NEW BLOCKADE OF GERMANY.

The map here presented, shows at a glance the present firing line of eight nations at war, with about 7,000,000 Germans and Austrians fighting against a slightly greater number of allied Russians, French, English, Belgians, Italians and Serbs.

It also shows how nearly complete is the blockade that has been thrown around Germany and Austria by their foes, against all food or supplies going into either country. Against this blockade, the submarine is now Germany's only weapon. England's command of the sea is otherwise undisputed.

ANOTHER CONCERT WILL BE GIVEN ON SATURDAY EVENING

Special Program of Popular Airs to be Rendered by the Italian Band

Fifth Regiment and High School Bands to Follow in Concerts to be Carried on Through the Summer Months.

Last Saturday's band concert at the court house proved so popular that it will be repeated next Saturday evening at the same hour, eight o'clock, sharp. Director Impallomini promises an excellent program of popular music which the band is especially rehearsing this week.

Instead of using the space between the Trust company building and the court house, the band next Saturday will occupy the broad sidewalk at the corner of the court house, so that the people on both Market and Second streets will be able to enjoy the concert.

On Saturday, July 24, an effort will be made to secure the Fifth Regiment band, and this excellent organization will be heard in many concerts before the end of the season.

Following the Fifth Regiment High School band will be engaged, and then in order the Italian, Fifth Regiment and High School bands will alternate.

Last Saturday's concert crowded the downtown section of the city, it being estimated that 2000 people were on the streets or shopping in nearby stores during the hour of the concert. That they were attracted by the music is evidenced by the fact that almost immediately after the concert the streets were practically cleared of the crowd.

If the concerts prove to be the success that is promised for them, the borough will be asked to build a low, collapsible bandstand which can be erected at the corner on Saturday evenings and taken away after the concert is over.

TROUT STREAMS IN COUNTY ARE TO BE RESTOCKED SOON

Wild Life Leagues Busy With Plans For Increasing the Luscious Game Fish

Rod and Gun Clubs in Clearfield Take Charge of Arrangements for This County, While League Officials Undertake Work in Adjoining Sections.

Crystal Springs, Crooked Run, Pitch Pine and View Point hunting and fishing clubs have sent applications to the game commission at Harrisburg for fish to stock streams in their vicinity. Over thirty applications have been sent in from Clearfield county while the surrounding counties are just as energetic.

A thorough investigation is to be made by the State Wild Life league into the streams of the state with the object in view of ascertaining what fish are adapted to them and to restock them.

Clearfield county has no Wild Life league but the most strenuous efforts are being made by those most interested to organize one. Joe Phillips is at the head of the movement to organize a league in the county.

The Jefferson county branch of the Wild Life league will carry on a survey of practically all the streams in nearby counties. At last night's meeting of the Jefferson Wild Life league committee were appointed to investigate the stream and find out their conditions and the fish that will thrive in them best.

The members of the committees are all good fishermen and will fish the streams that have been assigned to them. They will report of the kind of fish caught, the size of the fish, acreage depth of the streams, pollution and its sources, the temperature of the water, the character of the growth along the edges, the nature of the bottom and all other data that will enable the state game commission to determine what kind of fish is best adapted to that stream.

Despite the fact that Clearfield has no Wild Life league to take care of the fish and game affairs for the county the principle fishing and hunting clubs of the county have gone ahead and will heavily restock the trout and bass streams as soon as the fish which have been applied for arrive.

William Goss of Clearfield, has charge of the restocking of the streams for all the clubs and thinks that this year's restocking will be the largest ever undertaken.

The Jefferson county league is taking up the movement with the greatest avidity and has also launched a plan to bring into the league every farmer in the community. The members of the league think that every farmer should be intensely interested in the propagation and protection of the game and it is expected to have every farmer in the league within six weeks.

An effort to secure a tract of at least 10,000 acres in the vicinity of Big Run for a game preserve will also be made by the Jefferson County league. This was decided upon after considerable discussion for and against several other tracts of land in the county as being the most suit-

FALL OF BASTILLE CELEBRATED IN A SOLEMN CEREMONY

Usual Festivities Abandoned at This French "Fourth of July"

Funeral of Noted Poet, Whose Ashes Are Laid Beside Those of Napoleon in Hotel des Invalides, Only Notable Event of Holiday.

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Paris, July 14.—This city today celebrated the anniversary of the overthrow of monarchical tyranny in one great and impressive ceremony—the funeral of Claude Joseph Reusset de Lile, celebrated composer. No cannon and fire works were used to mark the annual holiday, this solemn event alone observed the day.

At seven o'clock the ashes reached Paris from Choisy-Lerol, their former resting place, to be placed beside those of Napoleon in the Hotel des Invalides. At ten o'clock with hundreds of thousands of people lining the route, the impressive cortege moved from the arch of triumph through the South Elysee, the Avenue Alexander Third and the Esplanade de Invalides.

Only the soft sobbing of the women broke the silence which signified most of all the new France after the war. The casket on the caisson of a cannon from the republic draped in black lead the procession, then came carriages bearing President Poincaré, members of the cabinet, state officials and other notables. The parade at the esplanade followed the arrival of the remains at the Hotel des Invalides.

Until five o'clock this evening the people were allowed to visit by the small coffin containing the ashes of the celebrated composer. Bastille day was celebrated along the Allies' battle front. By a prearranged plan the trenches burst forth in song during the hours in which President Poincaré was delivering his address before the Hotel des Invalides.

Will Pass Through Clearfield July 27, When Local Ladies Will Celebrate

State Wide Tour of Women's Suffrage Meeting With Rousing Reception Everywhere—Clearfield Suffragettes Preparing Demonstration During Its Stay Here.

The Woman's Liberty Bell will pass through Clearfield on July 27, on the tour of the state for the suffrage amendment, so that it may gain liberty and justice for the women of Pennsylvania on November 2.

The motor truck bearing the bell will reach here about 5:00 o'clock p. m. The local suffragettes have arranged a big public mass meeting and demonstration to welcome it at 7:30 p. m. This will give all the people of Clearfield a chance to see the exact replica of the bell that proclaimed "Liberty Throughout the Land to all the Inhabitants Thereof," at least as far as the state was concerned in 1776.

The corps of elegant speakers who accompany the bell on its tour will make stirring addresses at the mass meeting. The local suffragettes will also take a prominent part in the exercises.

While the bell is in this county it will be escorted by a guard of honor composed of prominent local men and women.

A delegation of these suffragettes, in automobile will meet the bell and its party at the Jefferson County line and escort it through Clearfield County. At the Clearfield county line a Cambria County guard of honor will meet the bell.

The Woman's Liberty bell is a duplicate of "Old Liberty" in every way. It is made of 2000 pounds of the finest bronze and is cast in the exact size and shape of the original Bell. The only way in which it can be told from the national one that is now on its way to the San Francisco Fair is by the fact that it is not cracked and that a special watch for the Women's cause, "Remember, Justice," has been inscribed on it in addition to its famous motto "Proclaim Liberty Throughout the Land to all the Inhabitants Thereof."

But until the women of Pennsylvania are given the vote their bell will never sound a stroke. No huge bronze clapper will be held aloft until they are given the just rights of their citizenship. The women hope that the Bell will sound on November 2.

The Bell party passes through: July 26, Lumber City 10:00 A. M., Mahaffey, 12:00 noon—(Morning) Burnside, 2:15 P. M., and Cherry Tree 3:00 P. M.

U. S. EXPECTED SOON TO RECOGNIZE CARRANZA

Conduct in Mexico City Aggravates Surprise to the Administration

Washington, July 14.—All accounts from Mexico strengthen the conviction here that General Carranza will be recognized by the Washington administration. Officials admitted that his course following his recent appointment of Mexico City has been an agreeable surprise to them. There was no denial that some of his past methods had led the administration to doubt his availability for even temporary control of Mexican forces. With the fall of the capital, he not only ordered order restored but gave signs of being able to carry it into effect.

BRITISH WORKMEN DEMAND NO MORE WAR FOR ENGLAND

(BY UNITED PRESS)

London, July 14.—"British working men are shedding their blood in the trenches and working hard in the nation, but when the fighting is over, British labor will say to the government, 'We want no more war and the things that make war possible must be wiped out.'" Ramsey MacDonald, a member of parliament and leader of the independent labor party, made that statement to the United Press today. He said that the British working men might protest against enforced enrollment, but would not resort to any violence.

"ANY REPUBLICAN THAT'S DECENT"

Colonel Roosevelt is reported to have declared his willingness to support in 1916 "any Republican that's decent." He has not "gone back to the Republican party," nor has he specifically retracted his definite pronouncements of 1912 that he was done with the old party for all time, but has assumed an attitude of "watchful waiting" with respect to national political developments. The deep significance of this change of mind and attitude on the part of the erstwhile leader of the Progressives can hardly be overestimated. He has doubtless realized long since that the movement which he led three years ago has spent its force as a permanent factor in American "party" politics. His own personality, potent as it has proved to be, is not sufficient to create an irreparable and permanent breach in the ranks of the Republican organization, especially in view of the fact that the principles for which he and his four million supporters stood in 1912 were by no means the exclusive possession of the Progressive party, but were upheld in all sincerity by many thousands who adhered to the old party but differed with Colonel Roosevelt as to the best means of having them put into practice.

The net result of the struggle of 1912 was to put the Democratic party into complete control of the National government, and all Republicans are beginning to appreciate that the prestige of position will give the Democrats a great advantage in 1916, especially if they make, as there is every likelihood that they will do, President Wilson their standard bearer. Now it appears that Colonel Roosevelt is beginning to look upon the re-election of Wilson and the perpetuation of his economic and diplomatic policies the "greater evil" to be confronted next year. Hence his notice that he is prepared to abandon the third party and support the right kind of Republican candidate.

Under these circumstances it behooves the managers of the Republican party to consider well the situation thus created. They will make a grave mistake to assume that the moral forces underlying the revolt of 1912 have been dissipated merely on the evidence of the disappearing Progressive votes of the intervening elections. That revolt was aimed at methods and policies of party management, and the spirit which animated it is not dead by any means. It was characterized by an earnestness that was almost fanatical, and Colonel Roosevelt is probably right in assuming that "if the Republicans do not make the mistake of putting up some man who is a slap in the face at the four millions who voted for him in 1912," a large proportion of that four million of voters will join hands in the fight to prevent the re-election of President Wilson.

Of course, the difficulty will arise when it comes to define the "decency" of a candidate. It ought already to be obvious that the Republican party will make a suicidal mistake if it fails to take into account the Progressive sentiment among those who have returned to their party allegiance, or fails to heed the lesson of 1912. Perhaps the breach between the present party managers and those for whom Colonel Roosevelt speaks is still too wide to hope for an immediate agreement as to the sort of candidate who would be acceptable both to the late Progressives and those who stood by the party and by Taft, but Colonel Roosevelt has plainly held out an olive branch, and it must not, it cannot safely be ignored.—Public Ledger.

BELETED INQUIRY

Word comes from Washington that President Wilson is having the new seamen's law closely reviewed to determine whether its effect on American shipping or its relation to other laws "makes amendments necessary." Only one result of such searching inquiry is likely, for thought not yet operative the La Follette statute has already had a bad effect on American shipping, causing one company even to abandon its Pacific trade in advance. As an example of hasty and ill-considered legislation this law, by all accounts, will stand far toward the front of such instances of misguided action.

Some of its provisions do not go into effect until March 1, 1916, others can await the 4th of next November, but the life belt regulations must go into operation on July 1. These latter require the examination and registration of a new class of licensed employees estimated at 20,000 in number, a task that was assigned to the commerce department which, in the hurry to put the bill through, before the end of the Sixty-third congress, was granted no funds for the purpose. During some weeks after the passage inquiries poured in from puzzled ship owners asking how to comply with the law's complex demands.

This new statute, which is the result of the demands of organized labor, has good features along humanitarian lines, but is burdened with a confusion of detail and greatly increases the already heavy cost of operating American ships. Moreover, the makers of the law have attempted the hazardous task of "raising the standards" of foreign shipping along with American port rules, compelling foreigners to equal our own proposed excellence. The port officials are required after next November to refuse clearance to any ship that does not meet both the language test and the able seamen stipulations. Obviously the law threatens foreign complications for it is said to abrogate twenty treaties, requiring the President to give early notice of the termination of all international agreements which conflict with the new American view of the proper treatment of undisciplined crews. The sections on life-saving appliances and those covering a number of other points are all understood to apply to foreign vessels within our waters.

The law righteously condemns involuntary servitude and other abuses that are now very rare, and the sections dealing with safety at sea have been practically covered by the agreements of the London convention. The provisions safeguarding wages, improving rations, quarters and hours, and stopping employment in unseaworthy vessels, are highly commendable. But it was at once recognized by intelligent observers that the merits of the measure are more than offset by the difficult problems it presents, the foreign complications it invites, and the further setback it gives to the upbuilding of an American merchant marine by adding so greatly to the cost of operation. The "close review" now said to be ordered by the President is tardy. Such inquiry should have been made before the law was passed.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

"In Reval, the remaining Russian naval station upon the Baltic Sea, the Tsar passes a strong, convenient war-harbor, doubly protected by its deeply indented bay and by its position upon the narrow of the Gulf of Finland," says a study in the geography of Europe's great war recently prepared by the National Geographic Society at Washington. The statement continues:

"The development of Reval as a great naval base is a matter of recent years. Reval has always been more or less fortified, but its present formidable works date from the decision of the Russian admiralty that Libau was too near the German borders to be dependable as the first naval base of the Empire upon the Baltic. Libau was maintained as an important base; its defenses were made as strong as possible; its shipyards and military factories were built up; but Reval, secure in its fastness in Russian waters, became headquarters of Russian naval strength in the West.

"Reval is also the capital of the government of Esthonia. It lies upon the bay of Reval, a deep, roomy inlet of the Gulf of Finland. The seaport is about 280 miles east-southwest of Petrograd, with which city it is connected by a well-built, trunkline railway. By night express, Reval is 11 hours from Petrograd, and 18 hours by water; thus re-inforcements and supplies could be quickly thrown into this important base in case of need. Riga lies nearly 200 miles due south of Reval. Both coasts along the Gulf of Finland are irregular, and the narrows are well adapted to defensive purposes.

"Helsingfors, Finland's great seaport, is just opposite to Reval, with which it carries on a considerable trade. Reval has been important, both as a commercial and a fortified harbor, ever since Western civilization penetrated to it and to its hinterland. It did an annual aggregate trade before the outbreak of hostilities of well over $30,000,000, thus taking the position of third rank among the Baltic ports of Russia. Spirits, grains, animals, flax, butter, wool, hemp, timber, and game birds are its principal articles of export. Its imports are cotton, coal, petroleum and manufactured wares. Reval manufactures some machinery and considerable beer, and adds to the balance sheet of its profits by a regular influx of summer bathers.

"It's population before the war was about 7,000, of whom more than half were Esthonians and nearly 30 per cent Germans. Since the loss of Libau to the Germans, this population has, probably, increased by number of workers for the development of naval yards to take the place of those lost to the enemy. During recent years, Reval has become well acquainted with its battle ships; for a squadron of cruisers, battleships, and destroyers has generally been held there. Moreover, target practice has been held in the offing every summer, the great guns pointing toward Finland.

"The city is divided into two parts—Domborg, or 'Cathedral Hill,' and that part of the town upon the beach. The lower and the upper towns have their own administrations. The crag upon which the upper town is built was occupied in the early Middle Ages by an Esthonian fort, Lindanisa. Valdemar II, King of the Danes, credited with being the founder of Reval, built a church and a string castle here in 1215. Hansa merchants came; settled here, and built a flourishing trade. Early in the 14th century it was fortified, and since then it has withstood many sieges and bombardments both by sea and by land. Its fanciful old battlements, its meandering war-worn, weather-beaten streets, its battered citadel and donjon, which the cannon shot of Swedes and Russians searched and scarred its centuries-old buildings, its ancient archives and many other testimonies of the past, make the quaint old city and the modern, deadly stronghold of unusual interest to the peaceful tourist."

NOTED OFFICERS TO TAKE PART IN THE GRAND REVIEW
Colonel Clem, Last of Civil War Veterans on Army Active List Conspicuous Figure

Admiral Dewey, a member of Farragut's Squadron, General Osterhaus, and Others Distinguished for Service to Country, Will Take Part in Ceremonies.

(Special to the Progress)
Washington, D. C., July 13.—Clad in a reception gown of red, white and blue, the capital city will welcome the time-worn survivors of the once powerful legions of Grant and Sherman, Meade and Sheridan at the forty-ninth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, and the fiftieth anniversary of the grand review, the week beginning September 27. In the hourly-burly of patriotism at Washington on that historic making occasion will be many conspicuous characters of the great war in the preceding century.

Col. John McElroy, past Senior Vice Commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., who is regarded by his comrades as a veritable living encyclopedia of the civil war, its men and events, is compiling a roster of the noted figures of the sixties who are expected to attend the big encampment. It is interesting to note this connection that the two surviving corps commanders of the civil war, Maj. Gen. Grinnell M. Dodge, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Maj. Gen. James H. Wilson, of Wilmington, Del., are expected to be present. General Dodge commanded the noted sixteenth corps. General Wilson commanded all the cavalry between the Allegheny mountains and the Mississippi river; details of his troops swept down through Alabama and Mississippi at the close of the war and captured Jefferson Davis.

At the head of the list of division commanders is Maj. Gen. Peter Joseph Osterhaus, who has been living for many years at Mannheim, Germany. At this time of the encampment of the G. A. R., he will come to Washington to visit his son, Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, U. S. N., and will greet his old comrades of fifty years ago. General Osterhaus stood among the splendid German officers who came to this country to serve the cause of the Union.

Another noted division commander who is expected to greet his former soldiers at the encampment is Maj. Gen. David McGregg, who is auditor general of Pennsylvania. He commanded with great credit one of Sheridan's cavalry divisions.

Maj. Gen. Adelbert Ames, who commanded a division of the tenth corps, distinguishing himself at Fort Fisher and who was afterwards governor of Mississippi, and later Senator from that state, is living in retirement in Massachusetts, and is expected to come here during the encampment.

Others who are on the roster of prospective visitors are Admiral George Dewey, who was one of Admiral Farragut's young officers, gaining distinction in the attack upon Port Hudson; Maj. General Nelson A. Miles, who entered the service as first lieutenant and became colonel of the 61st New York Volunteers, and who as a brigade commander delivered at Sunderland station, Va., the momentous blow that cut Gen. Lee's last railroad connection and compelled the surrender of Petersburg and Richmond; Admiral Colby M. Chester, a young officer of Farragut's squadron; Lieut. Gen. S. M. B. Young, who rose from an enlisted man to be colonel and brevet brigadier general, and then entered the regular army, being retired in 1904 with the rank of lieutenant general. He is now governor of the U. S. Soldiers Home at Washington.

Col. John L. Clem, Quartermaster Corps, U. S. Army, the only survivor of the civil war now on the active list of the army, is stationed at Washington, and is taking a lively interest in the arrangements for the 49th encampment of the G. A. R. Colonel Clem was baptized in the fire of battle as a drummer boy in the sanguinary contest at Shiloh. He had many thrilling experiences, and because of his undaunted valor in the "horriblest" at Chickamauga General Rosecrans and Thomas bestowed upon him the title, "Drummer Boy of Chickamauga," which he proudly wears to this day. Prior to the battle of Chickamauga he wore the cognomen, "Johnny Shiloh."

Another drummer boy of the regular army who will be present in August is Springsteen who was but 10 years of age when he entered the service. He will have charge of a drum, and bugle corps of 100 sons and grandsons of union veterans in Grand Review at the G. A. R. camp.

Maj. Gen. J. Warren Keifer, Ohio, is expected to attend the encampment. He wore the stars of his rank in two is still active. He commanded a brigade and division in the fighting sixth corps in the civil war, and was commander of a division of the seventh army corps in the war with Spain. General Keifer served several terms in Congress and was one time speaker of the House of Representatives. He declared recently that he is ready and willing to go to war for Uncle Sam if his services are needed.

WAR FAILS TO INJURE THE HAGENBECK MENAGERIE
Food Problem Met and Animals Now Subsist on Vegetable Diet

(I. N. S. SPECIAL)
Hamburg, July 13.—A visit to Hagenbeck's enormous animal park here, discloses the fact that, the number of animals has increased since the war began.

In view of the prevailing difficulty in obtaining grain, such as wheat, corn, oats and barley, for feeding purposes during the winter, some inconvenience was experienced in the beginning, but Hagenbeck solved the problem in a simple manner. For instance, water birds and cranes which principally were fed with grain formerly, receive a substitute, containing boiled potatoes, boiled fish and ground bones. Oatstraws are fed with chopped hay mixed with wetted bran, acorns, cut beets and fish, a fodder which has proven to be of nourishing quality, as is shown by the uninterrupted breeding.

Antelope, stags, rhinoceros and giraffe have forgotten the looks of oats and corn, because the substitutes of cut beets, acorns, chestnuts and potatoes as a small ration of bran has found much favor. Lions, tigers, leopards and other members of the cat family receive a before daily ration of horse meat or bullocks head.

Polar bears and brown bears were fed formerly with bread. In 1913, for instance, 155,800 pounds were required. Today, fish has been substituted.

HEAD OF ANTI-RABIES CORPS MEETS DEATH IN THE FIELD

Dr. Chaillon and Companion Victims of Germany's Big Gun

(I. N. S. SPECIAL)

Paris, July 13.—News has been received how Dr. Chaillon, head of the anti-rabies service at the Pasteur Institute, met his death on the night of April 24 while making experiments in the disinfection of the battlefields. He had advanced close to the enemy trenches in the little forest of P— to sprinkle a new disinfectant on the bodies lying near their wire defenses when the Germans discovered his presence. They immediately opened fire with a huge mortar.

Dr. Chaillon and a companion, Corporal Vion, had become separated from their party, and took shelter in a small cabin. A shell struck it, completely demolishing the structure and burying both men.

WHEN DISCIPLINE WOULD BE THE PRIZE OF GERMAN SOLDIERS

Troops Held to Short of Fall of Verdun Applied Full of Temper (G. N. S. SPECIAL)

Rotterdam, July 13.—An interesting story is told here of the discipline of German officers who ordered their men to shoot "thorough" when over news of victory was announced to them. The Germans can be strict at Luxemburg as if it was in Germany. One officer shouted to a comrade, "Have you heard the news? Verdun has fallen." The officer congratulated one and other officers. Then one turned to the address and shouted, "Will you shoot thorough, you fellows." They instantly obeyed the order, and shouted for all they were worth.

A few weeks later the same officer and the same men were on duty at the same station. "Have you heard the news?" said one of the officers. "Ting-Tao has fallen." He scarcely had the announcement when the soldiers, ignorant of the fact that Ting-Tao was a German fortress which the Japanese had taken, began to cheer lustily.

Since this incident the people of Luxemburg amuse themselves by singing all the words: "Ting-Tao has fallen." Everybody except German cheers.

NEW CLEARFIELD TEAM BUMPED BY ST. MARY'S

Out-Registered Against Home Boys in First Game Together

Clearfield's newly organized base ball team lost its first hard-fought game yesterday to St. Mary's by the score of 14 to 0. The team has just been organized and has had no time to practice with the results of bad work. Manager Healey has obtained the best of material for a winning ball team, the pitchers being of the best that can be found in any independent league. The infield is also the best and fastest that could be obtained. The outfield is made up of the best of Clearfield's fastest players. The St. Mary's team will play here Friday and a good game is expected. There will also be some changes in the lineup but it is not known just what they will be. Manager Healey is having the diamond at the Driving park scraped and the hay in the outfield cut so that everything will be in fine shape for a hot game.

In a voting contest conducted by the Philadelphia Press to ascertain who is the greatest living man in Pennsylvania and which closed last Monday Clearfield county is honored by having its president judge, Hon. Singleton Bell, receive 112 votes and Congressman Charles Roland, of Philadelphia 687 votes.

John Wanamaker, with 61,262 votes won the proud title of the greatest Pennsylvanian. Clearfield county is proud of the fact that it has men who are in the list when it comes to selecting the greatest Pennsylvanian. There were 196 in the voting list. Congressman Roland ranked 43d and Judge Bell 73d in the final counting. It is shown by the last returns that the Clearfield county men ranked higher than such men as E. T. TAKES DRASTIC ACTION

(BY UNITED PRESS)

London, July 14.—The government today took its most drastic step in an activity to speed up production of war munitions in an official proclamation dealing with the south Wales coal mining situation. Announcements was made that the government would not counsel strikes that would interfere with the production of supplies. President Runciman of the Board of trade stated that the dispute threatened to result in five thousand miners quitting work at a time when the government was using every endeavor to speed up the production of war supplies.

COUNTRY FIELDS STARTING PRESIDENT'S SUMMER HOME

Winston Churchill, Author, Buiks High "Spite" Fence

Vindict, At July 14.—When President Wilson arrived here for his vacation he found himself in the midst of a somewhat acrimonious neighborhood. Winston Churchill, the celebrated author was the storm center. And the President observed strict neutrality.

A high board fence, the cause of so much neighborly contention, was the cause of the dispute that agitated the author's colony in the Cornish hills about the President's summer house.

"Haitakenden House," occupied by the President as a summer residence was formerly the home of Churchill, when it was leased by the president. Churchill took another quant, but large, country house about two miles distant, east of the president's and the Connecticut river. Churchill liked the house, but didn't enjoy proximity of the much traveled road that then ran right past his front stoop, stirring up clouds of dust to be wafted into his rooms and also marring his privacy.

So the author got permission from the county authorities to change the course of the road—at his own expense. He switched the road away around his house, building a sharp turn and macadamizing it. He also dug down and built a costly concrete bridge with iron rails, across a gulch.

After completing the road and bridge, Churchill then proceeded to build a high board fence along it, to shut his house off from the road. Then the storm broke. The whole countryside objected. Most of all it is said, Churchill's own friends raised the loudest roars. They said a high board fence marred the scenic beauty of the exclusive summer residence section.

WALLACETON EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN SUCCEEDING

Sunday School Night Draws Great Crowd of Visitors

Wallacetown, July 14.—Last night was Sunday school night in the Wallacetown evangelistic campaign and the schools of the community came together in a very pleasing and impressive service. The schools represented were Chester Hill U. B., Centre Hill M. E., and the Church of God and Methodist schools of Wallacetown. Chester Hill had the largest out-of-town representation, there being more than sixty present. The spirit of the meeting was fine and after a splendid sermon by the Rev. O. B. Poulson, the people crowded forward to grasp his hand and assure him that they were arrayed in the fight against sin. This evening will be "Brick Works night." Cottage prayer meetings are being held each afternoon and the people of the community are manifesting a strong interest in the work.

ST. LOUIS MAKES STRONG BID FOR SHRINERS

(By United Press)

Seattle, Wash., July 14.—The selection of the new member of the Imperial divan of the Shrine order and the city which will entertain the forty second council meeting in 1916, held the attention of the Shrine council today at the second session of the annual meeting being held here. The new member of the Divan, captain of the outer guard, will become imperial potentate in eleven years, if nothing intervenes, and the prize is the most eagerly sought in Shrine-dom.

St. Louis made a strong bid for the 1916 council, already having raised a fund of $50,000 for entertainment purposes. The Missouri city shriners brought a huge baloon with them. It will be released tomorrow at Woodland Park, during an immense barbecue spread for the bands and patrols of the visiting temples.

A very unique entertainment will be held at the Y. M. C. A. next Friday night at which J. L. Henderson, a cowboy and forest ranger, will perform slight of hand and escapement trick.

The camp of these three institutions is an annual affair and the preceding camps have been held at McGees Mills. The location obtained for this year's camp is said to be better in all respects for the accommodation of the large crowd of boys that will attend from the three cities.

Everyone is invited to the entertainment on Friday. No admission will be charged or no collection taken. The object is solely to interest the boys and get them together for the purpose of enrolling as many as possible in the camp list.

J. L. Henderson has a wide reputation for his slight of hand performances and the way in which he frees himself from the shackles which he allows the audience to put on him is amazing.

MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD IS POSTPONED

Ground for New High School Not to be Broken Until August

The regular meeting of the school board was postponed last night on account of the inability of most of the members to be present. The secretary of the board reports that he has not heard from the school department at Harrisburg relative to the approval of the adopted plans but that an answer is expected in a few days.

The rumor that ground for the new building will be broken this month is erroneous as the school board cannot take possession of the ground until after the 1st of August, as the parties in possession were allowed three months notice.

HARDER'S GUN WORKS

Gasoline Explosion Causes Fire and Threatens Block In the Heart of Clearfield

QUICK WORK BY FIREMEN SAVES BLOCK

An explosion of about four gallons of gasoline in the pressing and cleaning establishment of Allen & Bartholomew on Market street this morning at 10:30 blew out the whole glass front of the building and badly burned Mr. Bartholomew and his assistant Jack O'Brien and threatened in ten minutes to destroy half a block of old wooden buildings surrounding it.

Bartholomew who was working in the rear of the shop with Jack O'Brien, a boy of 12, was badly burned about the face and hands, and had large holes in his clothing. He was taken to the Clearfield hospital. O'Brien was also painfully burned about the hands and face, and was cared for at Dr. Waterworth's office.

Mrs. Bartholomew who was in the front part of the building ran out into the street immediately and called for help. She was followed shortly afterwards by her husband and the boy.

The flames quickly spread through the whole building and burst out all the windows creating a blaze which the large crowd of people which gathered expected would destroy the neighboring buildings as well as the cleaning establishment in a few minutes.

The first ward fire company had one stream of water on the fire in five minutes after the explosion occurred, and in ten minutes the four fire companies of the town had as many streams on the building in the front as rear. The flames which had in five minutes grown until they shot out of the window and up higher than the building were quickly subdued and in 20 minutes the fire was completely under control.

The building in which the explosion occurred was owned by the George Snyder estate and had no insurance. The loss to the building is estimated will reach $1000.

The second story of the building directly over the pressing shop was occupied by L. B. Antis and five children, three of whom were in the building at the time of the explosion, and J. H. Antis and wife, both of whom were at home. Both families got out of the building safely. The apartment next to the shop was occupied by Mrs. George Snyder about 65 years old who had to be assisted out of the building.

The furniture and household goods of these families had not been protected by insurance and the loss will be heavy from fire and water damage.

The building of L. Denning which stands right next to the cleaning shop was not damaged to any great extent. There was $1000 insurance on the Denning building.

The Republican printing office which adjoined the Snyder building was damaged slightly by water. This loss is fully covered by insurance. A flutter of excitement was caused immediately after the explosion by a young woman who rushed into the street frantically calling for some one to rescue her sister from the burning building. A thorough search of the premises failed to disclose cause for her alarm, and later the women thought to be missing turned up with an armful of household goods which she had rescued and was taking to a place of safety.

The firm of Allen and Bartholomew had $8000 insurance on their stock and equipment which will in a large part cover the loss which is estimated at a little over $600. Bartholomew had $500 insurance on his household goods which will cover the loss.

Firemen "On the Job"

A number of the Clearfield fire companies on duty here this morning were called into action to save about $100,000 worth of property in the center of town which was threatened by the explosion of gasoline at a Bartholomew's pressing and cleaning shop.

The buildings surrounding the cleaning shop are all wooden frame structures on a large blaze which was immediately put out by the gasoline and which swept through the entire shop and out into the street would have in the opinion of all who saw it become uncontrollable had not the 2nd ward fire company had one stream of water on it a few minutes afterwards.

The fire alarm which was heard in operation for the first time by everyone in town proved its advantages over the old one by guiding the other three fire companies from the third, an fourth ward and from Reedsville directly to the scene of conflagration by sounding the 12th district in one short blast followed immediately by two short blasts and repeating this signal about 15 times.

ATTORNEYS BEGIN ARGUMENT IN THE FAMOUS THAW CASE

Jury Expected to be Sent Out This Afternoon—Quick Verdict Possible

(BY UNITED PRESS)
New York, July 14.—Presentation of evidence in the sanity trial of Harry K. Thaw closed at 10:40 a. m. today and Deputy Attorney General Cook began summing up. Cook planned to consume about 45 minutes and Thaw's attorneys two or three hours. It appeared probable that the case would go to the jury early this afternoon. Thaw was very confident. A smile of cherty optimism wreathed his face as he bent forward listening closely to all that was said.

In the big crowd that sought admission to the court room were many flashily dressed women. They pressed in about the bailiffs and were very indignant at being denied entrance to the court room.

THE WAR ZONE, POSITION OF ARMIES AND THE NEW BLOCKADE OF GERMANY.

The map here presented, shows at a glance the present firing line of eight nations at war, with about 7,000,000 Germans and Austrians fighting against a slightly greater number of allied Russians, French, English, Belgians, Italians and Serbs.

It also shows how nearly complete is the blockade that has been thrown around Germany and Austria by their foes, against all food or supplies going into either country. Against this blockade, the submarine is now Germany's only weapon. England's command of the sea is otherwise undisputed.

Y. M. C. A. TO HOLD ENCAMPMENT FOR BOYS OF THE CITY

Three Cities Join in Plans For Ten Day Outing For the Young Men

Camp Bo Narr, Near Lumber City, to be Turned Into Tent City For Ten Days—Boys to Have Swimming and Athletic Instruction Free of Charge.

The camp will be for boys from the ages of 12 to 16 years. The object of the camp is to give the boys a general good time. Amusements will consist of all kinds of activities principally athletic and aquatic. A regular program has been outlined for each day events. Part of the days program will consist of religious services.

Any boy who cannot swim will be taught and the boys will be under the supervision of the instructor all the time they are in the water. A regular time each day will be devoted to the aquatic sports which will be just before meals, and the boys will not be allowed to be in the water at any other time.

Good eats are assured by the management. The commissary department is under the supervision of E. B. Hagman of DuBois.

A large camp fire will make the evenings cheerful every night. The different colonies will take turn in gathering the wood for the camp fire every day.

Thursday's will be visitors' days and parents are invited to come any day.

The supervisors of the camp think that the location that they have obtained for this years camp, excels last years location at McGees Mills in every particular. There will be tennis courts at the camp, and an ideal swimming and canoeing place.

ANOTHER CONCERT WILL BE GIVEN ON SATURDAY EVENING

Special Program of Popular Airs to be Rendered by the Italian Band

Fifth Regiment and High School Bands to Follow in Concerts to be Carried on Through the Summer Months.

Last Saturday's band concert at the court house proved so popular that it will be repeated next Saturday evening at the same hour, eight o'clock, sharp. Director Impallomini promises an excellent program of popular music which the band is especially rehearsing this week.

Instead of using the space between the Trust company building and the court house, the band next Saturday will occupy the broad sidewalk at the corner of the court house, so that the people on both Market and Second streets will be able to enjoy the concert.

On Saturday, July 24, an effort will be made to secure the Fifth Regiment band, and this excellent organization will be heard in many concerts before the end of the season.

Following the Fifth Regiment the High school band will be engaged, and then in order the Italian, Fifth Regiment and High School bands will alternate.

Last Saturday's concert crowded the downtown section of the city, it being estimated that 2000 people were on the streets or shopping in nearby stores during the hour of the concert. That they were attracted by the music is evidenced by the fact that almost immediately after the concert the streets were practically cleared of the crowd.

If the concerts prove to be the success that is promised for them, the borough will be asked to build a low, collapsible bandstand which can be erected at the corner on Saturday evenings and taken away after the concert is over.

TROUT STREAMS IN COUNTY ARE TO BE RESTOCKED SOON

Wild Life Leagues Busy With Plans For Increasing the Luscious Game Fish

Rod and Gun Clubs in Clearfield Take Charge of Arrangements for This County, While League Officials Undertake Work in Adjoining Sections.

Crystal Springs, Crooked Run, Pitch Pine and View Point hunting and fishing clubs have sent applications to the game commission at Harrisburg for fish to stock streams in their vicinity. Over thirty applications have been sent in from Clearfield county while the surrounding counties are just as energetic.

A thorough investigation is to be made by the State Wild Life league into the streams of the state with the object in view of ascertaining what fish are adapted to them and to restock them.

Clearfield county has no Wild Life league but the most strenuous efforts are being made by those most interested to organize one. Joe Phillips is at the head of the movement to organize a league in the county.

The Jefferson county branch of the Wild Life league will carry on a survey of practically all the streams in nearby counties. At last night's meeting of the Jefferson Wild Life league committee were appointed to investigate the stream and find out their conditions and the fish that will thrive in them best.

The members of the committees are all good fishermen and will fish the streams that have been assigned to them. They will report of the kind of fish caught, the size of the fish, acreage depth of the streams, pollution and its sources, the temperature of the water, the character of the growth along the edges, the nature of the bottom and all other data that will enable the state game commission to determine what kind of fish is best adapted to that stream.

Despite the fact that Clearfield has no Wild Life league to take care of the fish and game affairs for the county the principle fishing and hunting clubs of the county have gone ahead and will heavily restock the trout and bass streams as soon as the fish which have been applied for arrive.

William Goss of Clearfield, has charge of the restocking of the streams for all the clubs and thinks that this year's restocking will be the largest ever undertaken.

The Jefferson county league is taking up the movement with the greatest avidity and has also launched a plan to bring into the league every farmer in the community. The members of the league think that every farmer should be intensely interested in the propagation and protection of the game and it is expected to have every farmer in the league within six weeks.

An effort to secure a tract of at least 10,000 acres in the vicinity of Big Run for a game preserve will also be made by the Jefferson County league. This was decided upon after considerable discussion for and against several other tracts of land in the county as being the most suit-

FALL OF BASTILLE CELEBRATED IN A SOLEMN CEREMONY

Usual Festivities Abandoned at This French "Fourth of July"

Federal of Noted Poet, Whose Ashes Are Laid Beside Those of Napoleon in Hotel des Invalides, Only Notable Event of Holiday.

(BY UNITED PRESS)
Paris, July 14.—This city today celebrated the anniversary of the overthrow of monarchical tyranny in one great and impressive ceremony—the funeral of Claude Joseph Reusset de Lile, celebrated composer. No cannon and fire works were used to mark the annual holiday, this solemn event alone observed the day.

At seven o'clock the ashes reached Paris from Choisy-Lerol, their former resting place, to be placed beside those of Napoleon in the Hotel des Invalides. At ten o'clock with hundreds of thousands of people lining the route, the impressive cortege moved from the arch of triumph through the South Elysee, the Avenue Alexander Third and the Esplanade de Invalides.

Only the soft sobbing of the women broke the silence which signified most of all the new France after the war. The casket on the caisson of a cannon from the republic draped in black lead the procession, then came carriages bearing President Poincaré, members of the cabinet, state officials and other notables. The parade at the esplanade followed the arrival of the remains at the Hotel des Invalides.

Until five o'clock this evening the people were allowed to visit by the small coffin containing the ashes of the celebrated composer. Bastille day was celebrated along the Allies' battle front. By a prearranged plan the trenches burst forth in song during the hours in which President Poincaré was delivering his address before the Hotel des Invalides.

Funeral Service This Evening at Home of Son-in-Law

Mrs. Martha Green, widow of Robert B. Green, late of Huntingdon, Pa., died at 6 p. m., Tuesday July 13, at the residence of her son-in-law, Andrew Harwick, 307 Locust street, Clearfield, Pa.

Mrs. Green was born in Huntingdon county, December 25th, 1830, and was a daughter of Henry Hutchinson and Mary Brown, his wife. She is the last of a family of ten children.

Mrs. Green was married first to John Thompson, who died in December, 1854. By this marriage she had one daughter, Mrs. Andrew Harwick, of this place, who survives her. Her second husband was Robert S. Green who died in 1885. By this marriage she had two sons, Harry E. and George W., both of whom are dead.

Will Pass Through Clearfield July 27, When Local Ladies Will Celebrate

State Wide Tour of Women's Suffrage Meeting With Rousing Reception Everywhere—Clearfield Suffragettes Preparing Demonstration During Its Stay Here.

The Woman's Liberty Bell will pass through Clearfield on July 27, on the tour of the state for the suffrage amendment, so that it may gain liberty and justice for the women of Pennsylvania on November 2.

The motor truck bearing the bell will reach here about 5:00 o'clock p. m. The local suffragettes have arranged a big public mass meeting and demonstration to welcome it at 7:30 p. m. This will give all the people of Clearfield a chance to see the exact replica of the bell that proclaimed "Liberty Throughout the Land to all the Inhabitants Thereof," at least as far as the state was concerned in 1776.

The corps of elegant speakers who accompany the bell on its tour will make stirring addresses at the mass meeting. The local suffragettes will also take a prominent part in the exercises.

While the bell is in this county it will be escorted by a guard of honor composed of prominent local men and women.

A delegation of these suffragettes, in automobile will meet the bell and its party at the Jefferson County line and escort it through Clearfield County. At the Clearfield county line a Cambria County guard of honor will meet the bell.

The Woman's Liberty bell is a duplicate of "Old Liberty" in every way. It is made of 2000 pounds of the finest bronze and is cast in the exact size and shape of the original Bell. The only way in which it can be told from the national one that is now on its way to the San Francisco Fair is by the fact that it is not cracked and that a special mark for the Women's cause, "Remember, Justice," has been inscribed on it in addition to its famous motto "Proclaim Liberty Throughout the Land to all the Inhabitants Thereof."

But until the women of Pennsylvania are given the vote their bell will never sound a stroke. No huge bronze clapper will be held aloft until they are given the just rights of their citizenship. The women hope that the Bell will sound on November 2.

The Bell party passes through: July 26, Lumber City 10:00 A. M., Mahaffey, 12:00 noon—(Morning) Burnside, 2:15 P. M., and Cherry Tree 3:00 P. M.

U. S. EXPECTED SOON TO RECOGNIZE CARRANZA

Conduct in Mexico City Aggravates Surprise to the Administration

(By United Press)

Washington, July 14.—All accounts from Mexico strengthen the conviction here that General Carranza will be recognized by the Washington administration. Officials admitted that his course following his recent appointment of Mexico City has been an agreeable surprise to them. There was no denial that some of his past methods had led the administration to doubt his availability for even temporary control of Mexican forces. With the fall of the capital, he not only ordered order restored but gave signs of being able to carry it into effect.

BRITISH WORKMEN DEMAND NO MORE WAR FOR ENGLAND

Will See Government Through Post-war Strife, But no More, Say Leaders

(By United Press)

London, July 14.—"British workmen are shedding their blood in the trenches and working hard in the nation, but when the fighting is over, British labor will say to the government, 'We want no more war and the things that make war possible must be wiped out.'" Ramsey MacDonald, a member of parliament and leader of the independent labor party, made that statement to the United Press today. He said that the British working men might protest against enforced enrollment, but would not resort to any violence.

"ANY REPUBLICAN THAT'S DECENT"

Colonel Roosevelt is reported to have declared his willingness to support in 1916 "any Republican that's decent." He has not "gone back to the Republican party," nor has he specifically retracted his definite pronouncements of 1912 that he was done with the old party for all time, but has assumed an attitude of "watchful waiting" with respect to national political developments. The deep significance of this change of mind and attitude on the part of the erstwhile leader of the Progressives can hardly be overestimated. He has doubtless realized long since that the movement which he led three years ago has spent its force as a permanent factor in American "party" politics. His own personality, potent as it has proved to be, is not sufficient to create an irreparable and permanent breach in the ranks of the Republican organization, especially in view of the fact that the principles for which he and his four million supporters stood in 1912 were by no means the exclusive possession of the Progressive party, but were upheld in all sincerity by many thousands who adhered to the old party but differed with Colonel Roosevelt as to the best means of having them put into practice.

The net result of the struggle of 1912 was to put the Democratic party into complete control of the National government, and all Republicans are beginning to appreciate that the prestige of position will give the Democrats a great advantage in 1916, especially if they make, as there is every likelihood that they will do, President Wilson their standard bearer. Now it appears that Colonel Roosevelt is beginning to look upon the re-election of Wilson and the perpetuation of his economic and diplomatic policies the "greater evil" to be confronted next year. Hence his notice that he is prepared to abandon the third party and support the right kind of Republican candidate.

Under these circumstances it behooves the managers of the Republican party to consider well the situation thus created. They will make a grave mistake to assume that the moral forces underlying the revolt of 1912 have been dissipated merely on the evidence of the disappearing Progressive votes of the intervening elections. That revolt was aimed at methods and policies of party management, and the spirit which animated it is not dead by any means. It was characterized by an earnestness that was almost fanatical, and Colonel Roosevelt is probably right in assuming that "if the Republicans do not make the mistake of putting up some man who is a slap in the face at the four millions who voted for him in 1912," a large proportion of that four million of voters will join hands in the fight to prevent the re-election of President Wilson.

Of course, the difficulty will arise when it comes to define the "decency" of a candidate. It ought already to be obvious that the Republican party will make a suicidal mistake if it fails to take into account the Progressive sentiment among those who have returned to their party allegiance, or fails to heed the lesson of 1912. Perhaps the breach between the present party managers and those for whom Colonel Roosevelt speaks is still too wide to hope for an immediate agreement as to the sort of candidate who would be acceptable both to the late Progressives and those who stood by the party and by Taft, but Colonel Roosevelt has plainly held out an olive branch, and it must not, it cannot safely be ignored.—Public Ledger.

BELETED INQUIRY

Word comes from Washington that President Wilson is having the new seamen's law closely reviewed to determine whether its effect on American shipping or its relation to other laws "makes amendments necessary." Only one result of such searching inquiry is likely, for thought not yet operative the La Follette statute has already had a bad effect on American shipping, causing one company even to abandon its Pacific trade in advance. As an example of hasty and ill-considered legislation this law, by all accounts, will stand far toward the front of such instances of misguided action.

Some of its provisions do not go into effect until March 1, 1916, others can await the 4th of next November, but the life belt regulations must go into operation on July 1. These latter require the examination and registration of a new class of licensed employees estimated at 20,000 in number, a task that was assigned to the commerce department which, in the hurry to put the bill through before the end of the Sixty-third congress, was granted no funds for the purpose. During some weeks after the passage inquiries poured in from puzzled ship owners asking how to comply with the law's complex demands.

This new statute, which is the result of the demands of organized labor, has good features along humanitarian lines, but is burdened with a confusion of detail and greatly increases the already heavy cost of operating American ships. Moreover, the makers of the law have attempted the hazardous task of "raising the standards" of foreign shipping along with American port rules, compelling foreigners to equal our own proposed excellence. The port officials are required after next November to refuse clearance to any ship that does not meet both the language test and the able seamen stipulations. Obviously the law threatens foreign complications for it is said to abrogate twenty treaties, requiring the President to give early notice of the termination of all international agreements which conflict with the new American view of the proper treatment of undisciplined crews. The sections on life-saving appliances and those covering a number of other points are all understood to apply to foreign vessels within our waters.

The law righteously condemns involuntary servitude and other abuses that are now very rare, and the sections dealing with safety at sea have been practically covered by the agreements of the London convention. The provisions safeguarding wages, improving rations, quarters and hours, and stopping employment in unseaworthy vessels, are highly commendable. But it was at once recognized by intelligent observers that the merits of the measure are more than offset by the difficult problems it presents, the foreign complications it invites, and the further setback it gives to the upbuilding of an American merchant marine by adding so greatly to the cost of operation. The "close review" now said to be ordered by the President is tardy. Such inquiry should have been made before the law was passed.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

"In Reval, the remaining Russian naval station upon the Baltic Sea, the Tsar passes a strong, convenient war-harbor, doubly protected by its deeply indented bay and by its position upon the narrow of the Gulf of Finland," says a study in the geography of Europe's great war recently prepared by the National Geographic Society at Washington. The statement continues:

"The development of Reval as a great naval base is a matter of recent years. Reval has always been more or less fortified, but its present formidable works date from the decision of the Russian admiralty that Libau was too near the German borders to be dependable as the first naval base of the Empire upon the Baltic. Libau was maintained as an important base; its defenses were made as strong as possible; its shipyards and military factories were built up; but Reval, secure in its fastness in Russian waters, became headquarters of Russian naval strength in the West.

"Reval is also the capital of the government of Esthonia. It lies upon the bay of Reval, a deep, roomy inlet of the Gulf of Finland. The seaport is about 280 miles east-southwest of Petrograd, with which city it is connected by a well-built, trunkline railway. By night express, Reval is 11 hours from Petrograd, and 18 hours by water; thus re-inforcements and supplies could be quickly thrown into this important base in case of need. Riga lies nearly 200 miles due south of Reval. Both coasts along the Gulf of Finland are irregular, and the narrows are well adapted to defensive purposes.

"Helsingfors, Finland's great seaport, is just opposite to Reval, with which it carries on a considerable trade. Reval has been important, both as a commercial and a fortified harbor, ever since Western civilization penetrated to it and to its hinterland. It did an annual aggregate trade before the outbreak of hostilities of well over $30,000,000, thus taking the position of third rank among the Baltic ports of Russia. Spirits, grains, animals, flax, butter, wool, hemp, timber, and game birds are its principal articles of export. Its imports are cotton, coal, petroleum and manufactured wares. Reval manufactures some machinery and considerable beer, and adds to the balance sheet of its profits by a regular influx of summer bathers.

It's population before the war was about 7,000, of whom more than half were Esthonians and nearly 30 per cent Germans. Since the loss of Libau to the Germans, this population has, probably, increased by number of workers for the development of naval yards to take the place of those lost to the enemy. During recent years, Reval has become well acquainted with its battle ships; for a squadron of cruisers, battleships, and destroyers has generally been held there. Moreover, target practice has been held in the offing every summer, the great guns pointing toward Finland.

"The city is divided into two parts—Domborg, or 'Cathedral Hill,' and that part of the town upon the beach. The lower and the upper towns have their own administrations. The crag upon which the upper town is built was occupied in the early Middle Ages by an Esthonian fort, Lindanisa. Valdemar 11, King of the Danes, credited with being the founder of Reval, built a church and a string castle here in 1215. Hansa merchants came; settled here, and built a flourishing trade. Early in the 14th century it was fortified, and since then it has withstood many sieges and bombardments both by sea and by land. Its fanciful old battlements, its meandering war-worn, weather-beaten streets, its battered citadel and donjon, which the cannon shot of Swedes and Russians searched and scarred its centuries-old buildings, its ancient archives and many other testimonies of the past, make the quaint old city and the modern, deadly stronghold of unusual interest to the peaceful tourist."

NOTED OFFICERS TO TAKE PART IN THE GRAND REVIEW

Colonel Clem, Last of Civil War Veterans on Army Active List Conspicuous Figure

Admiral Dewey, a Member of Farragut's Squadron, General Osterhaus, and Others Distinguished for Service to Country, Will Take Part in Ceremonies.

(Special to the Progress)
Washington, D. C., July 13.—Clad in a reception gown of red, white and blue, the capital city will welcome the time-worn survivors of the once powerful legions of Grant and Sherman, Meade and Sheridan at the forty-ninth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, and the fiftieth anniversary of the grand review, the week beginning September 27. In the hourly-burly of patriotism at Washington on that historic making occasion will be many conspicuous characters of the great war in the preceding century.

Col. John McElroy, past Senior Vice Commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., who is regarded by his comrades as a veritable living encyclopedia of the civil war, its men and events, is compiling a roster of the noted figures of the sixties who are expected to attend the big encampment. It is interesting to note this connection that the two surviving corps commanders of the civil war, Maj. Gen. Grinnell M. Dodge, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Maj. Gen. James H. Wilson, of Wilmington, Del., are expected to be present. General Dodge commanded the noted sixteenth corps. General Wilson commanded all the cavalry between the Allegheny mountains and the Mississippi river; details of his troops swept down through Alabama and Mississippi at the close of the war and captured Jefferson Davis.

At the head of the list of division commanders is Maj. Gen. Peter Joseph Osterhaus, who has been living for many years at Mannheim, Germany. At this time of the encampment of the G. A. R., he will come to Washington to visit his son, Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, U. S. N., and will greet his old comrades of fifty years ago. General Osterhaus stood among the splendid German officers who came to this country to serve the cause of the Union.

Another noted division commander who is expected to greet his former soldiers at the encampment is Maj. Gen. David McGregg, who is auditor general of Pennsylvania. He commanded with great credit one of Sheridan's cavalry divisions.

Maj. Gen. Adelbert Ames, who commanded a division of the tenth corps, distinguishing himself at Fort Fisher and who was afterwards governor of Mississippi, and later Senator from that state, is living in retirement in Massachusetts, and is expected to come here during the encampment.

Others who are on the roster of prospective visitors are Admiral George Dewey, who was one of Admiral Farragut's young officers, gaining distinction in the attack upon Port Hudson; Maj. General Nelson A. Miles, who entered the service as first lieutenant and became colonel of the 61st New York Volunteers, and who as a brigade commander delivered at Sunderland station, Va., the momentous blow that cut Gen. Lee's last railroad connection and compelled the surrender of Petersburg and Richmond; Admiral Colby M. Chester, a young officer of Farragut's squadron; Lieut. Gen. S. M. B. Young, who rose from an enlisted man to be colonel and brevet brigadier general, and then entered the regular army, being retired in 1904 with the rank of lieutenant general. He is now governor of the U. S. Soldiers Home at Washington.

Col. John L. Clem, Quartermaster Corps, U. S. Army, the only survivor of the civil war now on the active list of the army, is stationed at Washington, and is taking a lively interest in the arrangements for the 49th encampment of the G. A. R. Colonel was baptized in the fire of battle as a drummer boy in the sanguinary contest at Shiloh. He had many thrilling experiences, and because of his undaunted valor in the "horriblest" at Chickamauga General Rosecrans and Thomas bestowed upon him the title, "Drummer Boy of Chickamauga," which he proudly wears to this day. Prior to the battle of Chickamauga he wore the cognomen, "Johnny Shiloh."

Another drummer boy of the regular army who will be present in August is Springsteen who was but 10 years of age when he entered the service. He will have charge of a drum, and bugle corps of 100 sons and grandsons of union veterans in Grand Review at the G. A. R. camp.

Maj. Gen. J. Warren Keit Ohio, he, promised to attend the encampment. He wore the stars of his rank in two

is still active. He commanded a brigade and division in the fighting sixth corps in the civil war, and was commander of a division of the seventh army corps in the war with Spain. General Keifer served several terms in Congress and was one time speaker of the House of Representatives. He declared recently that he is ready and willing to go to war for Uncle Sam if his services are needed.

WAR FAILS TO INJURE THE HAGENBECK MENAGERIE

Food Problem Met and Animals Now Subsist on Vegetable Diet

(I. N. S. SPECIAL)
Hamburg, July 13.—A visit to Hagenbeck's enormous animal park here, discloses the fact that, the number of animals has increased since the war began.

In view of the prevailing difficulty in obtaining grain, such as wheat, corn, oats and barley, for feeding purposes during the winter, some inconvenience was experienced in the beginning, but Hagenbeck solved the problem in a simple manner. For instance, water birds and cranes which principally were fed with grain formerly, receive a substitute, containing boiled potatoes, boiled fish and ground bones. Oatstraws are fed with chopped hay mixed with wetted bran, acorns, cut beets and fish, a fodder which has proven to be of nourishing quality, as is shown by the uninterrupted breeding.

Antelope, stags, rhinoceros and giraffe have forgotten the looks of oats and corn, because the substitutes of cut beets, acorns, chestnuts and potatoes as a small ration of bran has found much favor. Lions, tigers, leopards and other members of the cat family receive a before daily ration of horse meat or bullocks head.

Polar bears and brown bears were fed formerly with bread. In 1913, for instance, 155,800 pounds were required. Today, fish has been substituted.

HEAD OF ANTI-RABIES CORPS MEETS DEATH IN THE FIELD

Dr. Chailou and Companion Victims of Germany's Big Gun

(I. N. S. SPECIAL)

Paris, July 13.—News has been received how Dr. Chailou, head of the anti-rabies service at the Pasteur Institute, met his death on the night of April 24 while making experiments in the disinfection of the battlefields. He had advanced close to the enemy trenches in the little forest of P—to sprinkle a new disinfectant on the bodies lying near their war defenses when the Germans discovered his presence. They immediately opened fire with a huge mortar.

Dr. Chailou and a companion, Corporal Vion, had become separated from their party, and took shelter in a small cabin. A shell struck it, completely demolishing the structure and burying both men.

WHEN DISCIPLINE WOULD BE THE PRIZE OF GERMAN SOLDIERS

Troops Held to Short of Fall of Verdun Applied Full of Temper (G. N. S. SPECIAL)

Rotterdam, July 13.—An interesting story is told here of the discipline of German officers who ordered their men to shoot "thorough" when over news of victory was announced to them. The Germans can be strict at Luxemburg as if it was in Germany. One officer shouted to a comrade, "Have you heard the news? Verdun has fallen." The officer congratulated one and other officers. Then one turned to the address duty and exclaimed, "Will you shoot thorough, you fellows." They instantly obeyed the order, and shouted for all they were worth.

A few weeks later the same officer and the same men were on duty at the station. "Have you heard the news?" said one of the officers. "Ting-Tao has fallen." He has scarcely had the announcement when the soldiers, ignorant of the fact that Ting-Tao was a German fortress which the Japanese had taken, began to cheer lustily.

Since this incident the people of Luxemburg amuse themselves by singing all the words: "Ting-Tao has fallen." Everybody except Germans cheers.

"TO THE DREGS" A ZONE CRY AT THE BIG FRISCO FAIR

Crowds of Merry-makers Stick the Limit, Refreshing With Dancing

"Zoning" the Newest Craze of Hundreds of Thousands Who Are Visiting the Panama-Pacific—Strictly Neutral Barkers Vie for Trade.

(BY UNITED PRESS)

San Francisco, July 13.—To the last dregs! To the last bitter protest of tired feet and fagged bodies; until dancers drop into chairs exhausted and worn; until barker's throats are dry and their voices cracked from hours of shouting and cajoling; until one by one the myriad lights fade out, and standing gaunt against the sky appear only the skeleton outlines of a fairy city.

So San Francisco and its thousands of visitors take their pleasure upon the "Zone," the joy spot of the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

It is far into the night. Over the noisy huddle of voices come the notes of a bugle. They ride upon a breeze heavy with the odor of Japanese rice cakes, pop corn and handy out-door kitchens. Upon a balcony, high above the joy seeking throng a young woman in a much be-brided suit of semi-military cut supplies the lung power for this bugle, summoning all who still have a dance left in their system or are looking for a "reviver" to carry them through another hour. It is a German place and is the "fortifying" position, but world's fair crowds are strictly neutral.

A giant guardman in dublet and hose stands forbiddingly before the door. The long spear upon which he leans, however, is for other purposes that guarding the sacred portals. He is more likely to give you a friendly jab with the working end of the spear to assist you in, if there is any hesitancy.

Across the way the barker for an Irish village bids for patronage against the Teuton fortress. The glories of a near-by alligator farm are mixed with your anticipation of Irish joy, and, towering above you, but a step away is a giant "Mother Eve," of the inevitable Exposition attraction "Creation."

"Zoning" is still new to San Francisco, and is ever new to the endless stream of Americans, possibly for the first time in their lives determined to "see America first."

There is a soft perfume of flowers, the quiet music of numerous fountains that soft glow of invisible lights the flutter of the wings of doves. You pass down the long line of palms, heavy with clinging vines and flowers. You quicken your step to keep in tune with a band playing just across the way.

But now there is a new sound. You are still within ear-shot of the band, but you no longer hear it. There is a bang and a crash. You are at the head of the Zone. A metallic sounding mechanical orchestra bangs out the latest song hit. It is the first thing on the Zone and something which every American knows—a Merry-go-round. Stretching ahead is a mile of lights, laughing people, noise and action.

Behind you are the works and ideals of America. Before you is America at play.

From this Merry-go-round you may eat, drink and dance your way through the Panama Canal Zone, over the ice of the south pole with Capt. Scott, see educated horses, diving girls, or the crazy lion-sided village of Toyland with its "toy" soldiers towering sixty feet high. There are villages of Australasia, and Sanon and hopping back to our own continent, of Mexico. A step and you are in Japan with fat wrestlers, monkey shows an unnumberable fairs demanding attention.

While a miniature "Old Faithful" spouts in a miniature Yellowstone Park, there floats up to the broad veranda of the lan the "co-la-la" music of the Turkish dancers. There is to be found—in the Orient, not the Inn—Holy Moses, the camel hero of numerous expositions, the gun spinners and the inevitable line of "Princesses" whose kind was originally made famous by the first "Streets of Cairo."

"Old Faithful" it the end of the Zone. But there is the opportunity for more to eat, drink and a dance before starting to work your way back. One by one the concessions close, light flicker and go out. A fresh cold breeze comes off the bay. Fog begins to lower, chasing the heavy rice cake fumes. Tired dancers diving girls and barker's step from different shows and join the diminishing crowds. There is nothing more to see but still the pleasure seekers linger along the deserted thoroughfares. Let's all go home.

But listen! The bugle! The girl in the bearded suit the giant guardman, music the dance. And so to the last dregs!

How much longer will you put up with dusty roads?

You hold your breath and shut your eyes when an automobile swirls by raising a cloud of dust.

But if you want to know the real annoyance of this condition ASK YOUR WIFE.

SHE IS THE ONE THAT SUFFERS MOST.

If you had the task of keeping furniture dusted, curtains clean, carpets and floors spotless YOU WOULD CONSIDER ANY COST TOO GREAT TO PUT DOWN SUCH A NUISANCE.

That task keeps your wife busy most work.

Ask her what it would be worth to have the dust laid in front of your house. Ask her what it would mean to the children's health and cleanliness. Ask her if the front porch wouldn't be a more pleasant place to sit. Ask her the yard and the flowers wouldn't look better if they were not continually coated with a layer of dust.

Ask your wife these questions and you will have your eyes opened.

Rain makes crops grow. It also lays the dust. But rain doesn't come often enough to KEEP the dust laid. Therefore, there must be some artificial means of doing it.

Those means are being adopted by progressive communities throughout the state. Property values have grown. The better roads have proven attractive to touring motorists—liberal class of spenders. The business interests of the town benefit.

Good roads alone won't do. They must be dustless roads too.

Common comfort and cleanliness demand them. Business necessity demands them. Civic pride demands them.

YOU CAN GET DUSTLESS ROADS EASILY.

Urge your neighbors to see the necessity for them. The cost is small compared with the advantages. Write to The Atlantic Refining Company of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh for information on the subject which you can use to influence the neighborhood.

This concern will send a man, without obligation, to give facts and figures for improving roads with oil or asphalt.

He is a road expert and is now co-operating with your County Engineer in improving State roads in your vicinity.

The Atlantic Refining Company is under contract with this State to oil or resurface with asphalt hundreds of miles of State roads.

It has a big fleet of auto trucks and wagon distributors operating in every county in the State, making it possible to take care of your roads immediately and economically.

This expert can and will show you how. Just say the word.

It is up to YOU to do this. Don't wait for somebody else because somebody else may not do it. Start the ball rolling today and everybody will fall into line.

All they want is a LEADER—so write The Atlantic Refining Company yourself—today.

CITY LIGHTED FROM MUNICIPAL PLANT

Longmont, Colo., July 14.—Due to 40-watt Tugsten lamp, burning free current from the municipal lighting plant, brightens nearly every porch in this city of 7,000 souls.

The resident of Longmont refused the private company's light and burned candles and oil for two months back in 1911 while the municipal plant was building, because the private concern attempted to block the city owning its own plant.

Longmont's experience with municipal ownership has been so successful that inquiries are received from all parts of the world. The city's inhabitants are conservative and hard working and thrive and went into the municipal electric power and lighting business only when forced into it by unfair treatment and opposition. But once entered upon the task, Longmont pushed the municipal public utility with the same energy that has made the city the greatest sugar beet center in the United States.

NEW CLEARFIELD TEAM BUMPED BY ST. MARY'S

Out-Registered Against Home Boys in First Game Together

Clearfield's newly organized base ball team lost its first hard-fought game yesterday to St. Mary's by the score of 14 to 0. The team has just been organized and has had no time to practice with the results of bad work. Manager Healey has obtained the best of material for a winning ball team, the pitchers being of the best that can be found in any independent league. The infield is also the best and fastest that could be obtained. The outfield is made up of the best of Clearfield's fastest players.

The St. Mary's team will play here Friday and a good game is expected. There will also be some changes in the lineup but it is not known just what they will be.

Manager Healey is having the diamond at the Driving park scraped and the hay in the outfield cut so that everything will be in fine shape for a hot game.

The young women volunteered to teach in the vacation schools. Their students are mostly foreign. The young women are Eloessa Smith, Georgia Brown, Hazel Mills, Lucy Tillotson and Abbie Tillotson of Vassar, and Borthea Storer, Kate and Margaret Jackson of Barnard.

TAKES DRASTIC ACTION

(BY UNITED PRESS)

London, July 14.—The government today took its most drastic step in an activity to speed up production of war munitions in an official proclamation dealing with the south Wales coal mining situation. Announcements were made that the government would not counsel strikes that would interfere with the production of supplies. President Runciman of the Board of trade stated that the dispute threatened to result in five thousand miners quitting work at a time when the government was using every endeavor to speed up the production of war supplies.

COUNTRY FIELDS STARTING PRESIDENT'S SUMMER HOME

Winston Churchill, Author, Buiks High "Spite" Fence

Vindictive, At Long 14.—When President Wilson arrived here for his vacation he found himself in the midst of a somewhat acrimonious neighborhood. Winston Churchill, the celebrated author was the storm center. And the President observed strict neutrality.

A high board fence, the cause of so much neighborly contention, was the cause of the dispute that agitated the author's colony in the Cornish hills about the President's summer house.

"Haukenden House," occupied by the President as a summer residence was formerly the home of Churchill, when it was leased by the president. Churchill took another quant, but large, country house about two miles distant, east of the president's and the Connecticut river. Churchill liked the house, but didn't enjoy proximity of the much traveled road that then ran right past his front stoop, stirring up clouds of dust to be wafted into his rooms and also marring his privacy.

So the author got permission from the county authorities to change the course of the road—at his own expense. He switched the road away around his house, building a sharp turn and macadamizing it. He also dug down and built a costly concrete bridge with iron rails, across a gulch.

After completing the road and bridge, Churchill then proceeded to build a high board fence along it, to shut his house off from the road. Then the storm broke. The whole countryside objected. Most of all it is said, Churchill's own friends raised the loudest roars. They said a high board fence marred the scenic beauty of the exclusive summer residence section.

WALLACETON EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN SUCCEEDING

Sunday School Night Draws Great Crowd of Visitors

Wallacetown, July 14.—Last night was Sunday school night in the Wallacetown evangelistic campaign and the schools of the community came together in a very pleasing and impressive service. The schools represented were Chester Hill U. B., Centre Hill M. E., and the Church of God and Methodist schools of Wallacetown. Chester Hill had the largest out-of-town representation, there being more than sixty present. The spirit of the meeting was fine and after a splendid sermon by the Rev. O. B. Poulson, the people crowded forward to grasp his hand and assure him that they were arrayed in the fight against sin. This evening will be "Brick Works night." Cottage prayer meetings are being held each afternoon and the people of the community are manifesting a strong interest in the work.

ST. LOUIS MAKES STRONG BID FOR SHRINERS

(By United Press)

Seattle, Wash., July 14.—The selection of the new member of the Imperial divan of the Shrine order and the city which will entertain the forty second council meeting in 1916, held the attention of the Shrine council today at the second session of the annual meeting being held here. The new member of the Divan, captain of the outer guard, will become imperial potentate in eleven years, if nothing intervenes, and the prize is the most eagerly sought in Shrine-dom.

St. Louis made a strong bid for the 1916 council, already having raised a fund of $50,000 for entertainment purposes. The Missouri city shriners brought a huge baloon with them. It will be released tomorrow at Woodland Park during an immense barbecue spread for the bands and patrols of the visiting temples.

ENTERTAINMENT TO INTEREST BOYS IN Y. M. C. A. OUTING

Unique "Stunts" to be Given at "Y" Friday Night by Real Live Cowboy

A very unique entertainment will be held at the Y. M. C. A. next Friday night at which J. L. Henderson, a cowboy and forest ranger, will perform slight of hand and escapement trick.

The entertainment is to advertise the boys' camp which will be held at Bo Nair beginning July 20 and lasting for 10 days. The camp will be a union affair of the Y. M. C. A.'s of Clearfield, DuBois and Punxsutawney.

The camp of these three institutions is an annual affair and the preceding camps have been held at McGees Mills. The location obtained for this year's camp is said to be better in all respects for the accommodation of the large crowd of boys that will attend from the three cities.

Everyone is invited to the entertainment on Friday. No admission will be charged or no collection taken. The object is solely to interest the boys and get them together for the purpose of enrolling as many as possible in the camp list.

J. L. Henderson has a wide reputation for his slight of hand performances and the way in which he frees himself from the shackles which he allows the audience to put on him is amazing.

MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD IS POSTPONED

Ground for New High School Not to be Broken Until August

The regular meeting of the school board was postponed last night on account of the inability of most of the members to be present.

The secretary of the board reports that he has not heard from the school department at Harrisburg relative to the approval of the adopted plans but that an answer is expected in a few days.

The rumor that ground for the new building will be broken this month is erroneous as the school board cannot take possession of the ground until after the 1st of August, as the parties in possession were allowed three months notice.
